Gameplay From the player's perspective, King of the Road has both a "Campaign" mode and a "Sandbox" mode. In the "Campaign" mode, the player is playing as a trucker attempting to earn the largest amount of money by completing designated truck routes. Some routes are completed automatically, but most routes have to be completed manually. The player can earn a reward for every kilometre driven. As soon as the truck earns enough money to buy a truckload of goods, the trucker will be offered the chance to buy the next truckload for a lower price. The most expensive truck that can be bought is the Freightliner Cascadia, which costs (). The cheapest truck is a dump truck that costs () to buy. The game is a real-time strategy game, which makes it almost like a city-building game. The player can purchase both trucks and trailers, either in one-day blocks of time or one truckload at a time. The most expensive trailer that can be bought is a semi-trailer, which costs () to buy. The cheapest trailer that can be bought is the standard trailer, which costs () to buy. After each of the truckloads is purchased, the truck will move to its destination. Development The game is in development since 2001. The development team is a part of the Warsaw-based company Krapow Games, which has previously made King of the Road: The Truck Game, King of the Road: The Car Game and King of the Road: The Rail Game. Reception King of the Road: The Truck Game received "favorable" reviews according to the review aggregation website Metacritic. The game was released for Microsoft Windows, Xbox 360 and PlayStation 3 on 30 January 2011 in the United Kingdom and on 2 February 2011 in the United States.
